A BAD MAN.

ALLEGED MURDERER HELPS STRIKE.

FORMER SEAMEN LEADER.

"Pardoned" by Dr. Sun Yat-sen for the alleged murder of his wife, subsequently deported from Hongkong as an undesirable, accused of having misappropriated public funds in this Colony, Canton and Shanghai, a notorious "labour boss" is now active once more in the strike against Hongkong.

Reported exclusively in the "China Mail" about a fortnight ago was the fact that Chinese coming to Hongkong from Namtau were being "squeezed" of various amounts. It was then stated that Chan Ping-sang, the notorious man whose career has been briefly given, was mainly responsible.

Namtau is a small port, in Chinese territory, just beyond Deep Bay. At least one big steam launch makes the journey to and fro each day. Fish and other foodstuffs, and passengers come to Hongkong from Namtau. With other routes temporarily closed up it was only natural that Hongkong strikers should make their way, overland or by native river craft, to Namtau to return to work. As soon as Canton heard of the port they opened up a strikers' branch office there. Pickets were sent out and soon Chan Ping-sang was the No. 1 man.

$100 Per Head.

For a time very few people got through, and little or no fish was shipped here. Then the restrictions seem to relax. According to the vernacular papers Namtau's strike office is now letting cargo and travellers through, on a consideration. Each person leaving Namtau for Hongkong, so the report goes, must pay a cash deposit of $100 which will be forfeited on failure to return the same day. In other words, those wishing to return to their old positions must pay $100 for the privilege. As many know, there are a good many domestic servants, coolies and seafaring Chinese from the hinterland of Namtau and the majority of market fish stall holders are also natives of that place.

It seems to be the same old story. Chan sprang into the limelight when the seamen's strike negotiations began. Then he was found guilty of murdering his wife at Canton but was released by Sun Yat-sen. He came back to Hongkong to be deported and returned to Canton where he fell into disgrace through alleged embezzlement of union funds. For a time he was in Shanghai till he got into trouble there. Since then he was not heard of until at Namtau, he cropped up again. It has also been rumoured that he has incurred the displeasure, by his actions, of the native garrison.

Troops Disarmed.

Incoming passengers from Namtau have been able to throw some light on the recent Canton "war." Several hundred of General Hsu Shung-chi's Kuomintang (Cantonese) troops were seen to march on Namtau which was held by another band of Canton men who evidently did not satisfy the Bolsheviks.

The new-comers were far superior in numbers to the garrison and in a short while the defenders were disarmed.

It now means that the whole of the Chinese territory adjoining the British border is in the hands of Canton's trusted troops, including both the non-Cantonese "Cadets," and Cantonese regulars.

DOG LAW.

POLICE TO ENFORCE
STRICTLY.

Instructions have been given to the police strictly to enforce the regulation which requires, except with the permission in writing of the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon, that no dog shall be removed from or landed on the Island of Hongkong.

THE USUAL DODGE.

(Reuter's Service.)

Canton, August 30. The Government has replied to the British Consul General disclaiming the report that it published and approved the coastal shipping regulations.

The wording of the Canton Government's reply to Sir James Jamieson, the "China Mail" understands, was "that the proclamation regarding the embargo on shipping had not been authorised by the 'Government Department', but had been issued by the Strikers' Union.

The opinion expressed to a "China Mail" representative by local business men approached on BORDER FIRING.

ANOTHER INCIDENT ON SATURDAY.

TELEPHONE LINE CUT.

A few shots were fired by Chinese soldiers at 6.30 p.m. on Saturday by Chinese soldiers half a mile from the border near Lowu. A party of Punjabia on patrol duty, who were satisfied that they were being made the target, returned the fire, and everything became quiet in a little while.

The telephone line between Lowu and Sheungshui was found to have been cut about a mile away from the latter station.

Because temporary food stations were established in the streets of Santa Barbara, few of the earthquake torn city's citizens missed a meal.

WORLD'S BEST VIEW

HONGKONG SEEN BY NIGHT?

Approach of some discussion that seems to have been going on at Home, Mr. T. Simmons of Edinburgh writes the following letter to the "Daily Mail":

In my opinion the world's best view is either the Firth of Forth as seen from Edinburgh Castle, or Malta seen as one enters the port of Valetta at daybreak.

For a night view one has to go a long way to see a more glorious sight than Hongkong viewed from the Kowloon ferry-boat.

Granted Hongkong, with all its fairly light-lights leading up to the Peak but as for the other two we can imagine much controversy, remarks the "North China Daily News."

In fact, the business is something like that which had two or three years ago almost as big a vogue in America as the cross-word puzzle, namely to decide who were the ten or dozen greatest sights that the world had produced. The latter brought out some weird opinions, absolutely unheard of people being quoted, and nobody agreed on any of them. In the same way, that the Firth of Forth or Valetta should get away without a protest is too much to expect. There is no doubt about how impressive the great sweep of the Firth is, and the attraction of the famous heights of Valetta, but on the other hand Naples Bay has an established reputation of its own, and in many places the Rockies of Canada are magnificent in their austere splendour. In fact when we go into the question we have to admit that it is dangerous even to rest our belief on Hongkong as night for somebody may know of something very much better. On the whole it seems safer to allow Mr. Simmons of Edinburgh to bear the burden of his rubbish.

The absence of a police officer who was the complainant in a case which came before the Police Magistrate last night was noted by the press.

REINFORCEMENTS

Reinforcements are believed to have arrived at Kowloon which fell during the week-end, into Red hands. The army of General Leung Hung-kai, who is still reported to be in custody at Whampoa, is fleeing into the interior. A prediction has been made that it will shortly be in the territory of General Tang Fung-yun, who is a subordinate of Chan Kwing-ming. Canton war vessels are mentioned as having reached Kowloon and the Red vanguard is penetrating inland to take over districts vacated by Leung's men.

Nowhere is there any possibility of offering resistance. General Cheung Kai-shek, c.i.c. of the Cadets, is now the autocrat of Canton. A triumvirate is supposed to exist but the other two—General Hsu Shung-chi and the victors have not been resting on their laurels but rapidly following up their successes.

NOTABLE EVENTS.

A QUEEN'S AND EMPEROR'S BIRTHDAYS.

HONGKONG CELEBRATIONS.

To-day (August 31) is an auspicious day in that on it fall the birthdays of two present day rulers, the Emperor Yoshihito of Japan and Helena Paulina Maria Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands.

The official celebration of the Mikado's birthday does not, however, take place until October 30, owing to the heat then prevailing in Japan, and in order that whatever programme decided upon in connection with the occasion may be carried through in comfort. There was therefore no celebration among the local Japanese community to-day.

At the offices of the Dutch Consul this morning, to celebrate the occasion of the forty-fifth birthday of Her Majesty the Queen of Holland (who succeeded her late father to the throne in 1890) Mr. M. J. Quist, Consul, received the Hon. Sir Claud Severn, Colonial Secretary, the Hon. Mr. A. G. M. Fletcher, Captain Swinton, M.C., A.D.C. to His Excellency the Governor, Commodore Stirling, his A.D.C. and the Naval Secretary, the C.S.P. Mr. P. J. Wodehouse, C.I.E., also many Consuls and representatives of the local community.

Wong Ching-wai—are very much in the background.

West River Movement.

Along the West River Red contingents are moving to attack a flank of the Cantonese garrison. Brigades of Cadets were thrown out in short time, occupying, without fighting, nearly all important points on the river and railway. These troops, according to latest intelligence, are moving towards the Sea Yan.

The Cadet chief, it is said to have refused the nomination of commander-in-chief of the Kuomintang Army, stating that he was satisfied to be President of the Whampoa Academy and garrison commander of Canton.

He has appointed five army commanders, each with two divisions. In doing so he has named Hsu Shung-chi, hitherto the standby of the Cantonese Bolsheviks, as his subordinate. Li Fook-lam is also one of the chosen as are a Yunnanese and a Hunanese general, and Li Chai-sum whose sway extends along to Wuchow and parts of the West River.

Effect on Strike.

In the excitement following the death of Lin Chung-ol, some of the strikers came in for rough treatment at the hands of Cadet patrols in Canton.

The position is that once having taken the guild leaders into confidence it will be necessary to provide for the rank and file. Liu Chung-ol's immediate subordinates are still officiating at the Finance Bureau and these are paying out the daily quota to maintain the strikers. Nominally, the Canton strike position has not changed. Actually, the possibility of a debacle is further removed and the outlook is not at all bright.

With the pronounced Reds in the ascendant it is only natural to presume that the politicians will maintain their policy.

There is a pleasant suggestion for a hot-weather game in the new and naughty book about Anatole France by his Bowdlerian secretary, Anatole France, was scornful of Renan's choice of a glimpse into the future, for Renan thought it would be rapture to pore into even the most elementary text book of science which schoolboys would use a hundred years after his death. writes Edith Shickleton in the Evening Standard. Anatole France was wiser than that, being, as he said, no longer possessed by the superstition of science, but he had his own curiosity about the future.

If I might choose out of the piles of books that will be published a hundred years after my death, do you know what I would take?
A novel? No. Always the same thing. A man loves a woman who does not love him; or a woman loves a man who does not love her; or both love each other, or detest each other, madly. There are a certain number of possible combinations, but even with the addition of the lover there are not more than a dozen situations.
No, I should not take a novel from a library of the future; nor a history book, for if that has any interest it is a novel too. I should simply take, my friend, a fashion paper to see how women dressed a century after my decease. Their ribbons and bibbons would tell me more about future humanity than all the philosophers, novelists, preachers, and men of science.

It is a good choice. To test it, and other throws in this game, you imagine your great grandparents, in 1825, looking at a fashion paper of to-day. Could they divine, from the stark freedom of the "two-piece" costume, the short hair, and the pulled-on hat, the enfranchise-ment and economic independence of women, the strenuous athleticism, the small family, the shortage of domestic service, the decline in coquetry, the increased pride, and greediness in love?

OUR WOMEN.

An Anatole France of that time, perhaps, would have done, deducing that such liberty of movement as is now allowed for in dress entails considerable physical splendour. These women, with their sports clothes, their lack of such appendages as corsets and bustles, clearly go about unattended, he would muse, but would he get from that the news of their economic independence? From that clue would there flash on him the knowledge that there would be a Married Woman's Property Act in 1825?

Perhaps, if he brooded long enough, for when we laugh at or abuse our forbear for their strict chaperonage of the daughters we overrate both their civility and their silliness. There was a very good reason for not letting your daughters cross the street alone when any rascal who could rush them into a wedding ceremony was for ever after in complete possession of all their money and lands. There are no fewer locomotive honeypots going about to-day than there was a century ago, but elopements and chaperons have alike, become rarer because there are no longer any locomotive money bags.

Our sage might make some egregious mistakes, but—and this is the main fault of the fashion book as an indication of social progress —he would make fewer mistakes over our gear than one who was nearer us by fifty years. Jane Austen, when she was twenty-five in 1800, would not have been greatly startled or mystified, one imagines, by the clothes of 1900, for she herself was dressed charmingly according to the English reflection of the stark First Empire modes. Bare necks and arms, the skimpy skirt, the revealed figure, the small head, were all familiar to her so that she would have been much less surprised by the English frock, and the sort of dinner dress that looks as though it had been made for a married man would say, Mrs. Alice Meynell, when she in turn was twenty-five, and she bustles and trains, the crumb catchers, and the light bodices of the "aventures" were normal wear.

The sage of fifty years ago, considering the weight and volume of a woman's clothes to-day, would certainly conclude that there had been some acceleration of the Gulf Stream since the climate had undoubtedly become warmer, but this thought would not have occurred to the sage a hundred years away, around whom floated diaphanous beings in low-necked muslins.
But if we do not clothe the fashion book as our peephole to the future, what then? A music programme might tell us nothing—even if we heard the music it promised.
If the twenty-year-old Chopin could have slipped into the Aeolian Hall one of these afternoons, he probably would hear something of his own and some (to him) quite startling debussy. If he heard a dance band he would conclude that the world had been overrun by "fast and powerful" hordes from the Congo and that the dancers were probably naked and dancing under a warm moon.

A photograph album, apart from its clothes, would tell us nothing.
We change too slowly for that, as anybody can prove by looking at the bust of Julius Caesar and a few other ancients. The modern face is already a few thousand years old and it may be thousands of years before there is a new version. In painting, too, one might draw a blank. The realistic pictures of saints, Hobbes and Vermeer might have told a great deal to anybody who could have seen them a hundred years before they happened, but what would ancestry have learned from Nicolas Poussin with his nymphs and ruins, or from one of the more self-centred members of the London Group?

An airy time table is a tempting choice. Will there be winter excursions to the Himalayas, and week-ends on the Great Wall of China, and daily "commuters" who live at Fontainebleau or Killarney and work in Cheapside? And yet, if we were assured of these things we would still be no wiser about the amount of home-sickness left in the world.

A 2025 GUIDE TO LONDON.

A hundred-years-hence guide to London would give a useful peep into the future, but it would plague us by telling so much that we know already. It would concern itself with the Tower and the Abbey and St. James's Palace, and the Roman Bath in the Strand, and perhaps never tell us what had been done about Hoxton, or when the area of jerry-built suburbs had fallen down.

For me, I should choose, I think, a stores catalogue—for there must be stores, whether one goes to them with Soviet coupons or coins—with a monarch's head on them. From this I could build up more than Anatole France, himself from his "ribbons and bibbons." I should know by the brushes and pastes and powders what sort of houses there were to clean or guess from the absence of these what new cleaning processes had been discovered.
I should know by the stock sizes of things like tail-suits how big the families mostly were, or, if sets had disappeared, that communal life had really come in. I should be able to gauge the feeling for "old-world" Victorian mahogany and learn a thousand other things.

But which of us, having thought for two minutes on this theme, would not abandon our clue to the future, in dread of making some depressing mistakes? Suppose Stephenson could have foreseen and foretold Euston Station in the nineties, would he not have amused his engine? And yet in another ten years Euston Station may be a bright and shining, even a flowery, electrical palace!

Clubman (disgruntled): "What d'ye think? I came back from the East this week to find my girl married to another man, and I've got a whole sackful of love-letters from her."

Friend (also disgruntled):
"You're lucky my boy I've got the girl!"

if you take your daily pinch of Kruschen Salts.

Just a little daily dose—as much as will lie on a ten cent piece; it's so easy and you can't taste it in your breakfast cup of tea. It reminds your liver and kidneys of

C. 414A LOURDES CURE.REMARKABLE STATEMENTS MADE.

Another wonderful cure which medical science is unable to explain is reported by the Medical Examination Bureau at Lourdes. Miss Ventura Julia, aged 45, has for nine years past been a bedridden invalid suffering from pernicious anemia, gastric ulcer, and pulmonary tuberculosis. A number of medical men in Spain had confirmed this diagnosis and expressed the view that her case was hopeless. She was, in fact, practically dying by the time Lourdes was reached, and was being given stimulating injections at frequent intervals. Although they were warned that Miss Julia was dying, and ought not to be moved any further, her relations persisted in their intention and finally brought her to the famous pool at Lourdes, and plunged her into the water.
The effect was remarkable. Miss Julia relates that she felt a sudden pain in her chest and then a curious sense of well-being. An inexplicable impulse caused her to back and struggle in the water, and then she found herself able to stand in the pool. She walked out alone without assistance, and from that moment had no further need of the injections. A local doctor, who examined her, has pronounced her cure complete.

Governor Ferguson, of Texas, has pardoned more than 500 prisoners since she took office. Premier Arthur J. R. Brown, of Halifax, was ill and grave anxiety was felt. Jack Dempsey left for home after a tour of Europe. Balmorall Colby, former Secretary of State, withdrew from counsel defending Professor John Scopes at Dayton, because of "antedating responsibilities."

Senator William King, after interviewing President von Hindenburg in Berlin, expressed himself as convinced there is no danger that Germany will be led back to monarchy. John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America, will have the satisfaction of having his serious accusations against industrial leaders investigated at President Coolidge's order. Under Secretary of the Treasury, Gilbert R. Winston announced additional heavy tax reductions during the next Congress. Edward L. Doheny stated a Pacific war scare had caused the Government to make the California and Hawaiian oil leases with him.

Thousands gathered along the principal thoroughfares of Indianapolis, as the mortal remains of the late former Vice-President, Thomas R. Marshall, reached the city from Washington, where he died suddenly.

One man was killed and several were injured when a benzine tank exploded in a Philadelphia cleaning and dyeing plant in the Borneo Building, the ruins of which are shown.

BOXING AGAIN.

PROFESSIONAL BOUTS IN SHANGHAI.

AFTER ONE YEAR.

Last week professional boxing was to have been resumed in Shanghai after a year's idleness.

For some reason or another professional boxing was forbidden but news has now reached the Colony that a batch of Filipino youngsters, from Manila, were to have boxed at the Carlton on August 27.

It will be recalled that Andre Dupre, after his first bout here, went North, but was unsuccessful in getting a fight.

HOWARD KINSEY.

NEARLY DEFEATS WORLD CHAMPION.

"ACT OF SPORTSMANSHIP."

Glencoe, Ill., July 25.

Howard Kinsey of San Francisco, when near victory over William T. Tilden in the Illinois State singles semi-finals to-day, interrupted his drive toward high tennis honours by an act of sportsmanship, says the "Shanghai Sunday Times."

In the fifth and deciding set, with the games 5-2, Kinsey leading, and the eighth game at 30-15, Tilden's favour, the Californian hit a return that was too low to clear the net. The ball hit the tape, and both Tilden and Kinsey were expecting it to fall back on the nearside, when it dropped slowly into Tilden's court, and the point went to Kinsey, making the score 30 all.

Then Tilden served and Kinsey made only an indifferent effort to return it, the ball going into the net. The gallery was quick to applaud the Californian.

From that time Kinsey, who had had the upper hand in the crucial set, gradually lost his lead as the national champion increased his speed and took four games straight, finally emerging the victor.

CLOSE STRUGGLE.

LAWN BOWLS RELEGATION DECIDED.

The fixture of outstanding interest in the First Division of the Bowls League on Saturday afternoon was the meeting of the Kowloon Cricket Club and the Kowloon Dock Recreation Club at Hung Hom. In two of the rinks the K.C.C. finished on top, Brown disposing of Lapsley by 21-16, and Gibson just beating Panchon by 19-17. The third rink, however, (Hyde v. Johnston) went down by nine points, a keen struggle thus ending in favour of the ground team by the very narrow margin of two points. This means the relegation of the K.C.C. to the Second Division next season.

In the other match the Kowloon Bowling Green Club were hosts to the Civil Service Club, to whom they had to bow the knee by a margin of 15 points (C.S.C.C. 61, K.B.G.C. 46). As neither could gain the championship and neither was in danger of relegation, not quite so much interest was taken in the fixture.

In the Second Division the East Point R.C. were at home to the Indian R.C., the latter playing one man short. In spite of this, however, the visitors proved too strong and gained a meritorious win by 13 points—an unlucky number for the ground club.
